Republicans elect Yurchak

The Belleville Area Republican Club elected a new slate of officers for their 1983-84 year. Ron Yurchak will replace outgoing president Jerry McKelvey as head of the local Republicans.

Other officers include: Maxine Heifner, vice president; Steve Sheldon, secretary; and Ruth Bleeker, who is the treasurer.

Rounding out the Board of Trustees are Harold Brownless, Brian Cullin and Ed Kapelanski.

Yurchak said that one of the party's goals is "to promote the Republican Party at the grass root levels. The important item is to let the local voters know that the Republican Party in the Belleville-Romulus-Ypsilanti area is alive and well.

The club also set meeting dates and times. The meetings will be held in the Civic Room of the Brass Belle Restaurant, at 8 p.m., every fourth Monday of each month.

PCHA gets OK to buy scanner

The Michigan Department of Public Health has given its stamp of approval for the Peoples Community Hospital Authority to purchase a full body CT scanner for use by all five of the Authority's hospitals.

The cost of the project, according to hospital officials, is $1,099,000.

The PCHA operates the Heritage Hospital in Taylor, Beyer Memorial in Ypsilanti, Outer Drive Hospital in Lincoln Park, Seaway in Trenton and Annapolis in Wayne.

The scanner will be located at Heritage Hospital in the radiology department where 704 square feet of space will be remodeled to accommodate the new equipment.

The Panthers are coming

Six members of the Michigan Panthers' cheerleaders and two players from the division-winning USFL team will be at the Tin Lizzy Restaurant from 7 to 9 p.m. tonight (July 6).

There will be a drawing for six tickets to this weekend's playoff game with Oakland, as well as information available on the game.

Tin Lizzy is located on Belleville Road.

They are all right

Although their cars were totaled, three persons managed to survive a two car collision last week on Huron River Drive, according to Van Buren police. Police said that 21-year-old Lorraine Stuart of Belleville and her passenger, Jill Anderson, 17, also of Belleville, were taken to Beyer Hospital in Ypsilanti when Ms. Stuart apparently lost control of her east-bound vehicle and crossed the median center line and struck a car driven by Elaine Cook, 42, of Ypsilanti. Stuart and Anderson had lacerations of the body and face and were treated and later released from the hospital. Mrs. Cook refused treatment. Van Buren Detective Mark Perkins said that the roads were slippery due to the incessant rain fall and that Miss Stuart apparently lost control of her vehicle. The case remains under investigation.

Negligent homicide charged

Warrants issued in auto fatality

Romulus police said yesterday that two Romulus men will be charged in the death of Scott Bambino who died of injuries sustained in a two-car accident on June 20 on Eureka Rd., just west of Merriman.

Warrants have been issued charging the drivers of the two cars Dean W. Lamoureux, 20, of Romulus, and Duane Edward Dunn, 19, of Romulus with negligent homicide with a motor vehicle.

Who's stealing whose secrets

Sumpter Township officials said "Thanks, but no thanks" to an $18,000 donation from City Sand and Landfill to chloride the Township's roads.

An executive of the company, which operates the controversial landfill on Willow and Elwell, tried to present the township with the check at the June 28 meeting but was rebuffed.

Lamoureux and Dunn were to appear today for arraignment on the charge in 34th District Court.

Bambino suffered head injuries after the two cars sideswiped on

At the meeting, the township also approved $14,400 to pay one-half the cost for chloriding the roads, though previously township officials said they couldn't afford to pay. The Wayne County Road Commission will pay the other half.

Eureka. He was a passenger in Lamoureux's vehicle, according to Sgt. Sam Chalton, of the Romulus Police Department.

The accident occurred June 20. In an unrelated incident, a Farmington Hills truck driver was killed when he apparently lost control of his vehicle and left the I-94 Expressway, west of Merriman Rd.

Vito Castiglione, 40, was pronounced dead on arrival at Oakwood Hospital on June 27 shortly after the accident. The truck Castiglione was operating left the rain-drenched road, slipped on its slide and crashed into numerous trees.

According to Romulus police, the driver didn't have on his seat belt at the time of the fatal accident. They said that rains apparently impaired the truck operator's vision and made the roads dangerous.

Criminal exam is today

By JERRY DESHARNAIS
(Special ANP Writer)

Gregory Heissler, a 22-year-old murder suspect in the death of a New Boston woman, Dixie Cobb, is scheduled for a criminal examination today at 34th District Court in Romulus.

Heissler is charged with first degree murder and criminal sexual conduct. He was arraigned June 27 before Judge Henry Zaborowski of Residents may get a break in water rates

Romulus residents and businesses may be paying less for their water and sewer city services if an amendment to the ordinance covering the subject is approved by City Council.

The amendment, offered by Councilman Jimmie Raspberry and supported by John Lewkowicz, hurled its first obstacle last week when council unanimously approved the language. If council adopts the second reading, then the ordinance may gain "emergency status" and residents' water and sewer bills would be decreased as of July 1, 1983.

How this all came about? Raspberry said, "I believe it is also fair if we do the same for rate decreases, therefore, I have submitted an amendment for council consideration that the word 'decreases' be added to the ordinance that covers the subject."

Romulus residents presently pay $3.69 per thousand cubic feet of water used and recently the City of Detroit, which supplies the water and sewer service to Romulus, approved a decrease in rates. The water rate per cubic feet is $3.30.

In an unrelated story, attorney Robert E. Hammell, hired last week by City Council to present the city's side in the controversy of the reportedly $1.9 million debt owed to the sewer debt retirement fund, is scheduled to meet with city officials today at 3 p.m. to discuss issues.

The Attorney General's Office has asked the city to offer a plan on how it will transfer monies owed to that fund before the Municipal Finance League moves into action to do it for the city.

On Thursday, at 10 a.m., Hammell and city officials are to meet in Lansing with Regina King, assistant to the Attorney General, to discuss the progress made on the transfer.

Hammell, a municipal bond expert, was called into the discussions at the 12th hour by the city's administration in hopes of resolving some of the financial problems.

Council last night was to discuss dust control of county and local roads. David Paul, Director of Public Works, informed Mayor William Oakley that the county will chloride approximately three miles of roads one time this year and "one time only" for a cost of approximately $900. The city is asked to share in the cost of the program.

Paul pointed out that the roads included in the program include Hannan Road, Vining south of Eureka to Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania Road and Grant.

"This application will be good during the hot spell for a period of (See RATES Page 3)

CD funds denied RCL, North LL

Under the guidelines governing Community Development Grant funds, North Little League and the Romulus Civic League are not eligible for funds.

In drawing up the application for the 1983 CDBG grants, the City Council approved a recommendation to give $2,500 to the Romulus North Little League. An equal amount was allocated for RCL.

Patrick A. Hogan, D Director, Community Development/Grants, informed the mayor that the county had denied funding for the Romulus North Little League and the Romulus Civic League.

Romulus Mayor William Oakley informed council via a memorandum that...there appears to be a possibility that money still could be allocated to the same organizations, but in a different manner."

Terrence M. Jarvis, Community Development Coordinator for the county, responded to the city's application for CD funds with the following comments:

• $2,500 for the Romulus Little League would not be a reasonable expenditure of funds. This determination is based upon the fact that CD funds may be utilized to reimburse for a activity completed prior to approval and release of funds by HUD (Department of Housing and Urban Development).

• $2,500 for the Romulus Civic League appears not to be eligible for funding as it is our opinion that such organizations does not meet the regulatory requirements of 24 CFR 570.204 (a) (2) — Eligible entities...A neighborhood-based non-profit organization which is an association or corporation, duly organized to promote and undertake community development activities.

Hogan would need the mayor and city council's direction to pursue the subject further. He asked "if it is the wish of Mayor Oakley and the City Council, I will speak to both parties in an effort to amend the request or provide sufficient additional information to rationalize the use of the money."

Probationary status remains

Huron High to stay on accreditation roll

Huron High School will not be dropped from the rolls of accredited high schools.

Supt. Gary Jackson was notified June 22 that the University of Michigan Accreditation Advisory Committee has reviewed the progress over the last year and concluded that the school would remain on probationary status until May of

"I am very happy about the decision and I feel it was justified," said Jackson.

Both Jackson and Huron High School principal Jon W. Stevens had accepted the invitation of the Committee to meet June 21 at Ann Arbor, to review the school's status.

The school had been cited for 13 violations in an inspection visit by Dr. Kent W. Leach on Dec. 31, 1981 and it was the aim of Jackson and Stevens to convince the Committee that improvement had been made.

Two of the primary violations were lack of librarian and insufficient counseling. Neither has been entirely corrected. But competent librarian aides are being used, Jackson told the Committee, and an increase in counseling service has been provided.

This reassurance and the correction of at least eight other of the violations were sufficient evidence to retain Huron High on probationary status.

Funds are OK'd for pier fishing facility

State Representative Edward E. Mahalak (D) Romulus announced today that the Michigan Legislature has appropriated funding for a pier fishing facility on Belleville Lake.

The appropriation is for the construction of a fishing pier at the public access site on Belleville Lake in Van Buren Township.

"A preliminary engineering study revealed that construction of a steel sheet piling retaining wall, as well as providing a bank fishing area, at this location is feasible," Mahalak said.

"And such a facility will provide excellent fishing because of the pro-placed the check in the treasurer's hands. When no one on the board of trustees made a motion to accept the check, Treasurer Clarence Hoffman returned it.

In making the donation, Handyside, accompanied by his lawyer Robert Ufer, stated "the firm had no ulterior motive other than to help the community."

Handyside read his remarks from a letter he presented to the board. "City Sand and Landfill, Inc., is committed to a program of public works projects and other contributions for local residents in the Sumpter community," the letter stated.

Despite Handyside's assurances that the company intends to be a "good neighbor," Sumpter Township residents remained unconvinced. None suggested keeping the check.

ximity of relatively deep water just a short distance offshore. This is the first such project to be built on Belleville Lake.

Mahalak added, "The Department of Natural Resources, Engineering Division, will design the facility and they will be advertising the project for construction bids later this summer."

Mahalak is a member of the House Appropriations Committee and he has been working to obtain the funding for this project. He has been in close contact with members of the Department of Natural Resources in the preliminary planning stages.

"Because the actual construction at this location during the boating season would be disruptive to recreational use, construction is not expected to start up until the week after Labor Day when the site would normally be closed," Mahalak said.

And further, "because construction activities can be hazardous, we cannot start the project earlier."

It is expected that the facility will be completed by the end of the 1983 construction season to assure that it will be operational by the Spring of 1984.

"Hopefully," Mahalak said, "we can avoid any interference between the contractor and the boating public utilizing the existing boat launching facility."

"I believe this is a desirable addition to the site which will provide full service to the fishing public and parking is already available on the site for the facility," he concluded.

Paul went on to say that he has discussed the problem (of dust control) with Wayne County Commissioner Milton Mack, who, Paul said, has made a motion at the county level to chloride all the county roads.

"Mr. Mack has indicated to me that since the Commission (Wayne County Commission) does not have control over the Road Commission, he suspects that nothing will be done.

"If you decide to go with the chloride in conjunction with the county," Paul concluded, "they (county) will need a resolution from the City Council stipulating that we will accept half of the cost. In the event that the city of Romulus has to do any further dust control on county roads, it would be at our total expense and would also require city council approval."

in the Chop's New Boston Inn Sunday night until closing about 2 a.m., police said. Three men in their twenties had also been in the bar along with the owner, Walter Porchak.

No suspect, and no identification of the victim could be obtained until an anonymous telephone tip to State Police in Flat Rock late Friday, June 24, naming both.

The arrest of Gregory Heissler, of 14068 Huron River Drive, followed, along with another suspect who was later released.

Sgt. John Maier of the Huron Police Department and Det. Sgt. Jay Dorenbecker of the State Police, investigators in the case, made the arrest.

Police said that Heissler entered the house and it is believed sexually assaulted her and beat her with some type of instrument. There were two eye-witnesses to the incident.

Because of legalities, identities of the witnesses would not be revealed by police.

Dixie Cobb had been living alone for the past five months following a divorce from her husband Garland Cobb who now resides in the Huron area with two daughters and a son, ages 21, 15, and 19.

Heissler, who claimed to be a mechanic, lived with his wife and a baby child in apartments in the New Boston village area at the intersection of Huron River Drive and Waltz Road for the past several months prior to moving to his current Romulus address four weeks ago.

Judge Henry Zaborowski will preside at the criminal examination today, scheduled at 9 a.m.

If a trial is scheduled, it will be held at the Circuit Court in Detroit.

Heissler is being held without bond in Wayne County Jail.

Sumpter has day on Saturday

Now it's Sumpter Township's turn to live it up.

Residents of the township are preparing for "their day" which will be climaxed by a picnic and fireworks on July 9.

"We expect a host of state, county, area and local dignitaries to take part in this program," said Adonna Demski, chairperson for "Sumpter Day". "We're offering a lot of prizes in many categories for those units, and groups that participate in our parade."

The parade is scheduled to get underway at 11 a.m., Sat., July 9 from Sumpter and Willis Rds. It will travel down Sumpter to Wear Rd. and the Sumpter Park.

Special trophies will be awarded to the top units in the parade. Also, a special trophy has been designated for the longest married couple as well as to the children who have the best decorated bikes.

Before the parade, however, township officials will hold a Prince & Princess Contest scheduled for 8 p.m., Friday, July 8 at the Township Hall. Children ages of 5, 6 and 7 are eligible to compete for the titles and the honors.

Games, a lottery, raffle, and entertainment will be offered during the day's festivities. Prizes include a black & white TV, a ceramic owl, and a half-case of liquor.

There is a huge fireworks display scheduled for Saturday evening.

Although the New Boston Chamber of Commerce is in its inaugural year of operation, members are quickly and surely putting their mark on the township. Thanks to donations from New Boston Lumber and work provided by the students at the high school, the Chamber has a sign post erected on Huron River Drive near Security Bank. At the left, Chamber members put the finishing touches to the landscaping around the sign. Gary Bates, Chamber president, said that co-chairmen of the sign erecting project are Lefty Price, of Price's Service Heating, and Jerry Chapp, of Chapp & Bushey gas station. Bates added that the membership to the local chamber has increased to 44 and the group is eyeing revitalization programs in New Boston and the township.

Canton controversy

Tempers flare as board discusses road programs

Members of the Wayne County Road Commission will soon receive a formal resolution demanding their financial cooperation in a program of road improvement within Canton Township.

The resolution, prepared by David Nicholson, director of economic growth for Canton, utilizing the input of 16 members of a citizens' road commission, was the object of much discussion and some alteration by members of the Township Board of Trustees at the regular meeting Tuesday evening.

Discussion began with a question from Trustee Robert Padgett inquiring as to who would be the township designate named as primary liaison to work with the road commission members to prepare the comprehensive road maintenance and improvement program the commission is demanding for Canton.

"Well, it better be somebody they will deal with," cautioned Township Supervisor James Poole. "It should be John Flodin (Township Clerk), Dave Nicholson or myself. We've been talking with them and dealing with them on a regular basis," he noted.

Padgett noted that Nicholson was already dealing with the county on the Haggerty Road improvement project and several other items and might be overloaded. Flodin suggested to the board members that Poole be named on the resolution. "I think it would have greater impact to name the chief elected official," he commented.

That proposal met with an unsolicited reply from Gloria Huffman, a member of the commission who asked permission to speak to the board on the issue. She suggested that Township Treasurer Maria Sterlini be named as the chief representative "since we are asking for financial aid." She continued her explanation to the board noting that the naming of Sterlini would free Nicholson if he were, in fact, overloaded and remarked that Sterlini had, "already established a relationship with them."

Sterlini responded noting that she would be willing to donate her time and that she would go so far as to hand carry the resolution to the county offices when she attended a meeting later in the week.

Flodin reiterated his nomination of Poole, once again stating his position that any negotiation or resolution would have more impact with the naming and sanction of the chief elected officer of the community.

Poole commented that naming him would not preclude others from speaking with members of the road commission staff. He mentioned that the head of the DPW department was already in regular communication with the county officers as was Flodin.

The motion to name Poole as the chief designate was passed unanimously, along with minor alterations in the text of the resolution.

Findings of the commission, stated in a cover letter, included the format for the implementation of an improvement program for the township roads, the commission, which includes as members both Sterlini and Trustee Carol Bodenmiller, suggested that the township obtain the cooperation of the Wayne County Road Commission to arrive at a mutually acceptable agreement to improve the unpaved residential portions of Haggerty, Lilley, Palmer, Sheldon and Warren Roads. That cooperation should include as much funding as possible for the project from the county, the commission stated.

Further, the advisory group suggested that the township officials seek voter approval at a special election for bonding the remainder of the expense for the improvement if necessary and to complete improvement of all the roads as soon as possible, preferably within the next two years.

While the board members adopted the resolution and the commission report unanimously, the suggestion that the voters be asked to approve a bonding program met with much discussion.

Padgett expressed his concern that timing of the election would necessitate a 60-day preparation term under state law and that "before we can go to the voters we need to know what we can or cannot do. Timing is a problem when we can't possibly get a settlement from Wayne County by tomorrow," he noted.

Trustee Stephen Larson agreed and noted that if the township were to place a deadline for an election in the resolution, cooperation from the county would cease and the township would be in a less desirable negotiating position.

"I would rather we pursue the scenario that the board will pay 100 percent of the cost and take the issue to the voters," Larson said.

Sterlini suggested that the township look for alternative financing for the improvement of the roads a long-standing goal often discussed at previous meetings. Her remarks apparently triggered the ire of both Poole and Larson.

Poole remarked that the grants coordinator, Terry Carroll, had been actively pursuing alternative financing and Larson noted that the treasurer's comments were an implication that Carroll was not properly performing his job.

"The implication that we have a grants coordinator and aren't looking for funds is as ridiculous as telling a policeman to be on the lookout for speeders every morning. I resent it," he said.

Flodin, too, took umbrage with Sterlini's remarks noting that he felt she had implied that the commission and Nicholson had done less than their best "... I'd like to commend them," he said.

Sterlini commented that she had meant no slight to anyone concerned.

Child abuse project expands in Western Wayne County

A two-year, federally-funded pilot project, using an innovative approach to prevent child abuse and neglect in Inkster, plans to expand into other Western Wayne County communities as it begins its third year of operation.

The communities of Wayne, Westland, Garden City and Taylor are under consideration as sites for a new phase of the Michigan Department of Social Services project, which emphasizes the organization of community services and citizen participation to assist parents whose children are victims, or may become victims, of child abuse and neglect.

The federally-funded project, which began in 1981, recently concluded its pilot phase with a dinner in St. Clement's Episcopal Church in Inkster, honoring some 100 Inkster volunteers.

The project marshals professional and volunteer services to assist families under stress and to prevent child abuse and neglect.

Neighbors, friends, relatives and local agencies support families in dealing with their problems, reducing the need to place children outside their homes.

Inkster volunteers have developed respite care centers where parents can learn parenting skills, while relieved of child care responsibilities. A personal needs closet with clothing and some furniture also is available.

Volunteers have developed community programs to promote awareness of the problem of child abuse and neglect. Transportation services also are provided.

Inkster was selected as the location for the pilot project because of the existence of community resources that could be mobilized, according to Marian Gormley, project coordinator. The community's concern for the welfare of children and the availability of volunteers willing to become involved also were considered, she said. The volunteers work with professional social workers from the Wayne County Department of Social Services.

Project staff will continue to provide consultant services to Inkster's support network now in place. This network, in cooperation with the local DSS offices, provides service to troubled families in the area.

Soft-spoken and knowledgeable Betty Miller who has served Inkster as city clerk for more than 15 years offers councilman Ernest Hendricks a smile after he presented her with a plaque from City Council in recognition for her outstanding services as clerk. Views On Dental Health

By KENNETH A. FOX, D.D.S.

GUM TALK

Normal, healthy gum is usually pale pink. As your gum gets "sick," irritated by bacterial plaque, it becomes redder, usually starting in the tissue triangle between the teeth. Later, it affects the gum in front of the tooth.

The shape of your gum is also important. Is it flat or thickened between the teeth? Are the tips enlarged? Does it emerge from between the teeth? This happens when the gum lining is irritated by bacteria and their products. Your gum responds by overgrowing and enlarging. It becomes bulky and somewhat forward of the teeth.

Perhaps your gum has receded and you have a dark space between your teeth that you could enter with a toothpick? What about the gum directly on the front of the tooth? If you can see a darker, yellowish-gray portion of the tooth, you may actually be looking at some of the root that has been exposed by gum recession. Since recession may be caused by bad toothbrushing habits OR by periodontal disease, you had best be examined by your dentist to find out why your root is showing.

Huron businessman is optimistic on township's future

By JERRY DesHARVAIS
(ANP Special Writer)

Peter Glaab Jr., 45, is a New Boston businessman. He runs his own insurance business, IFP, and has restored various buildings in the process.

He expressed his opinions before the Township Board recently regarding the direction he believes the New Boston village area should take.

We have asked Glaab to discuss his ideas here for the benefit of our readers.

The way I view this town developing as I travel around the state of Michigan is that I have gone through so many communities which are so neat, clean, and desirable I have often wondered why my town wasn't that way.

As I come through the town I kind of look at it and see all the potential that we have here.

We have the Huron River running through here and other features that are desirable and we could develop a uniqueness to our town as well.

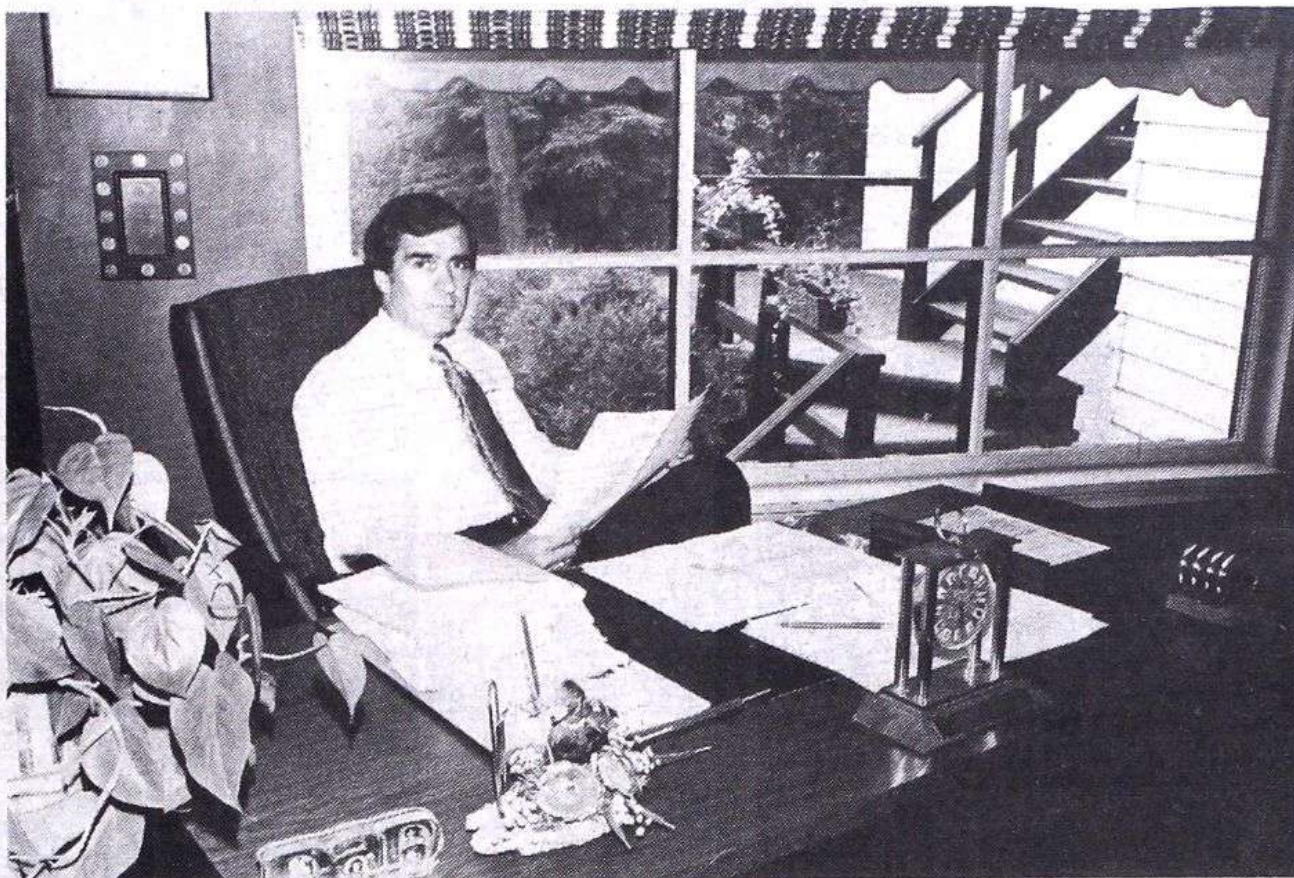

And I would guess sometime 10 or 12 years ago when I first opened an office in this town...the more I looked at this town the more I realized that we had such great potential and something could be done.

But I saw small businesses open up and close up, continuous transient type businesses when in fact I felt if we had more substance to our town, if our town was cleaner, if it looked like some of these other towns than probably we would keep that business.

So, I began to wonder why New Boston was so much different than these other communities I had visited.

And I finally boiled it down to a couple of things and the number one thing is "attitude."

I just feel that the attitude in this community has been down for so many years, which can happen to any community, that we really haven't looked around to see what we're living in, what we're doing...it seems to be a lack of direction.

Businessman Peter Glaab believes Huron has great potential.

So I thought if we could get the attitude right, then possibly we could change our town, change our image, change our relationships.

And of course that's part of the reason that I did get the Apple Festival started four years ago, hoping that we could bring the people together at a time where there's fun involved...renew old relationships. Then if we could begin to change the attitude and get a more positive vein, then we could start to change the image of the community in which we live.

So I have been working toward that goal.

I saw a couple opportunities in town to buy dilapidated buildings and rehabilitate them. With the help of my family I was able to do that and enjoy doing it very much because I could see step-by-step the image of the town changing.

As I saw that I then appealed to the school to get some of the counselors involved with me and to get some of the high school children together and we would approach various people in the community to clean up, fix up, paint up, or whatever, and then these individuals, businessmen or homeowners would make a contribution say to the school fund to help the school children.

And I thought we could accomplish a couple of things: one is we could get the town cleaned up, painted up; two, people would see something in a positive way taking place; and three, hopefully teach these young people it is important to be proud of yourself and have a good self-image.

Well, we tore down a couple of old dilapidated garages, painted a few buildings, cleaned up the streets and that's where it kind of ended. And I have to take blame for that partly because I realize that in order to get the significant changes completed it takes someone so dedicated that they stay with it all the time until the job is done.

So as I look at areas right near by us, like Plymouth, Northville, and a few other communities, I've seen the changes that have taken place in those areas, beautiful changes, to the point that when you drive through them you have a real good feeling. It's kind of unique.

And it makes me want that kind of atmosphere in this community even more. Now, there are other people besides Pete Glaab who are interested in this.

I feel a little bit remiss that I haven't made a real concerted effort to get all of these people together at one time as a group that share the same interest because I know if we did that we really could make change.

At this point with the help of the Chamber of Commerce and a few other interested people in the community, we could get the program off the ground.

I made some remarks at a community board meeting recently and the message that I was trying to get across at that time was that in all the years that I have lived in this community I've never seen our Township Board ever take the lead to affect change that is noticeable.

We have been going for years over the same old things — the water problems, the sewer problems, the construction problems and so on and so forth and all it seems we have been dealing with over the years is problems in a negative way.

And when we did have various programs such as "clean up" and "fix up" and so on, I didn't feel that the Township Board, regardless of who was on the Board, really got behind the efforts in any total sense.

So that was the basis for some (See GLAAB Page 6)

Nissan Pulsar NX creates new market

The introduction of a turbocharged version of the Nissan Pulsar NX has created a new automotive marketing segment... for high performance, moderately priced compact cars.

It's the NX Turbo, which makes a mid-1983 model year appearance at Datsun's nearly 1,100 dealers throughout the United States, including Zubor Motors, Inc.

"The debut of the Nissan Pulsar NX last fall brought out an entirely new dimension in sporty, affordable compact cars," said C.P. (Chuck) King, senior vice president, sales, Nissan U.S.A.

"The NX Turbo carries this a step further."

The suggested price of $8,349 is the lowest for a turbocharged car in the U.S.

King added that the new vehicle has a horsepower-to-weight-ratio of roughly 19 to 1, comparing favorably to the 15.5-to-1 ratio of the 280ZX, "which means the car is a lot of fun to drive."

The NX Turbo,

which is equipped with an automatic transmission, is powered by a 1487cc engine that utilizes Nissan's fuel-injected ECCS (Electronic Engine Control System). To match the new power potential, reinforced bearings and pistons, firmer shock absorbers, higher spring rates and enlarged rear brake drums have been added.

Pathfinders

The Plymouth "Wildcats," a Pathfinder group from the Plymouth Seventh Day Adventist Church recently participated in Pathfinder Day activities in the State Capitol. Attending were Kelly Conners and Frank Ennis of Canton Township, Ron Leonard of Belleville and Kim Lawnicki of Dearborn.

Pathfinders march to capitol to open up new trails for youth

The "Plymouth Wildcats," the entire Plymouth Pathfinder group of the Plymouth Seventh-day Adventist Church, recently marched in front of the State Capitol as participants in the Pathfinder Day Parade.

More than 60 groups from throughout Michigan participated.

The group marched behind its new banner, the work of Jeff Swanson of Canton Township and Irvin Warden of Superior Township. Their design was selected as part of a contest, and as a result the two youths were given the honor of carrying the banner during the parade.

Pathfinder Day is more than just a parade. Each group represented was represented by a booth they designed, illustrating arts and crafts, nature collection or sports. The Wildcats' booth featured model rockets and glass painting exhibits that the teens had been working on since January.

The day also included relay competitions, march and drill competitions and official scoring by a panel of judges for the teens' loyalty to their respective clubs, uniform neatness and participation throughout the year. The Wildcats earned an honorable mention for scoring 232 points out of possible 250 points and placing 15th in the judging.

Club members can earn honor tokens during the year by fulfilling requirements in more than 100 areas listed in the Pathfinder manual. Many of the Wildcats have received honors in beginning rocketry and glass painting. The group has voted to now work on honors in model rocketry II, model airplanes I and II, Indian lore, march and drill, fire building and camp cookery, and campcraft and pioneering.

Canton members who received awards included Frank Ennis, Kelly Conner, Jamie and Jeff Sawnsen, Travis Thomas, Jennifer Scott, Christine Marsh, Joseph Graham and Melissa Goodchild.

The Plymouth Pathfinder group, similar to a Scout troop, is sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist Church and is open to youths, both boys and girls, between the ages of 10 and 15. The current group of more than 20 includes youths from Plymouth, Canton, South Lyon, Belleville and Romulus.

The group meets weekly at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays at 4295 Napier Road. Information on the group can be obtained by calling 455-2776, 459-0894 or 348-3891.

WIC food program

Federal funds made available to help feed women, children

Senate Majority Leader William Faust (D-Westland) has announced that Michigan's Women, Infants and Children (WIC) Supplemental Food Program will receive additional federal funding to permit many more low to moderate income mothers and children to benefit from the program.

The Michigan program, which is funded through the U.S. Department of Agriculture, will receive an additional $3.7 million under the Federal Jobs Bill, allowing 30,000 more persons to be enrolled. Approximately 90,000 mothers and children in Michigan are currently participating.

"This is a very beneficial program designed to help low to moderate income mothers and children up to five years old who, because of inadequate nutrition, are at risk of complications of pregnancy or poor growth and development," Faust said. "I would urge everyone who thinks they may qualify to make application to participate in the WIC Program at the Wayne County Health Department at Wayne County General Hospital in Westland."

State health officials have indicated that because of Michigan's economic climate and high unemployment levels there are probably thousands of women and children who need and qualify for this program, but have not enrolled in it, because they have not known about the program or were under the incorrect impression that it is a welfare program.

Since the program serves low to moderate income women and children, a family of four can be eligible with an income of approximately $17,000. A family of two can be eligible with an income of $11,500.

The WIC Program provides food supplements and nutrition education to pregnant and nursing women and infants and children up to the age of five. There is no charge to the program participants. Supplemental food is prescribed according to an individual's need. Milk, cheese, eggs, dried beans or peas, cereal, peanut butter and juice are the WIC foods available to women and children. Iron-fortified formula, juice and cereal are the foods available to infants.

Unistrut officials hope to correct an inefficient system of material handling by connecting the company's two buildings located on the east and west side of Elizabeth. An expansion across the street would save the company an estimated $300,000 annually, according to Unistrut officials.

A consultant's study of the situation, which has included interviews with nearby residents and business owners, now centers on the usage of Williams. The feasibility study was launched in January.

Unistrut plans are on hold

No conclusion has been reached to date on the prospects of closing Elizabeth Street in Wayne for a proposed $4 million expansion of the Unistrut Corp.

City Engineer Ralph Magid said Monday that Williams Street is being considered as an alternate route should Elizabeth be closed in a one-block area between the Conrail railroad tracks and Clinton Street. Unistrut officials requested the street closing last fall to allow for a 70,000-square foot expansion.

Huron businessman Glaab is optimistic on Huron's future of my remarks at a meeting recently, not to chastise the Board but to make them aware and hopefully to think back with me or take a look at it from my perspective that the Township Board really is a necessary group to affect change.

And I think they have to be positive and I think we have an opportunity at this time to pick up a couple of vacant buildings in town (Glenn Buildings) which unfortunately increase the number of vacant or dilapidated buildings in our community, and we have some government money available and the Township operation itself needs more room.

There's just no question about it. They need more room. Our police department is working under very adverse conditions. I feel the same about our DPW and so on.

I feel that the price on the particular buildings, their location on the main street, the accessibility from two streets, would make the purchase a wise decision, especially with the potential federal grant money that's available.

So with that in mind I feel it is an opportunity to take a couple of buildings right in the center of our town and really fix them up in a very, nice appealing way. Tear down a couple of older buildings on the street and if we make this kind of significant move, I think that the community will feel that there is something positive really happening...

The total picture that I have and what I envision in this community is, again, let's say something like Northville, and some other towns.

That is, the brick sidewalks, the accent street lighting, restored buildings, which would encourage people to open up boutiques and little specialized restaurants and that type of thing.

And I feel that the town is that size that we can affect change. A lot of communities get so large that it is very difficult to affect change.

But we are of a size that we can change it if we can change the attitude of the people, and begin to develop an active group that has foresight and can dream a little bit about what the future can be...

It's difficult at this point in time with the economy and the way that this town has been constructed to expect private enterprise of any magnitude to step into the town, put a lot of money into it and affect change.

Local art on display

Five local artists, including Glen Summers of Romulus, are among the nearly 60 artists and craftspeople who will be participating in Dearborn's fourth annual Homecoming Art Fair, Aug. 5-7.

Summers will exhibit woodwork.

Also exhibiting are: Dorothy Denner, of Canton, stained glass; Wallace Bilyeau, of Livonia, watercolor; Mary Ann Crandall and Conny Velfling of Redford, silk/dried flowers and soft sculpture.

The National Council
Alcoholism
Michigan Division, Inc.
A United Way Agency

I just cannot see that happening. There are too many bargains out there today and I don't see private enterprise coming into this town and spending that kind of money.

But, the Township government has to be here, it needs more room, they need greater accessibility for the senior citizens as well as anybody else who tries to pay their water bills or conduct their business.

We don't have parking. That's discouraging.

But I feel with the money that is available right now under the Jobs Bill ($290,000 in 90% matching grant) the Township could take the buildings we have, create beautiful little buildings at a very low expense. And I think that's very important — we wouldn't want people to think that the Township is going to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars for selfish motives to have a better place to work but rather to take the lead in making a significant change in town, beautifying it, and hopefully encouraging other businessmen to see that there is movement going on in a positive direction and possibly some of these old vacant buildings will be bought up, fixed up or replaced and then we're on the way to a better community.

And I'm willing to do that. I've already purchased four buildings in this community and have improved every one of them and I enjoy doing it because I can see the change I've been involved in.

And it's a great feeling to take something and just change its image to something more positive.

I view this town changing. It's going to change. Now I think is the time for the Township to take on a position of leadership in something very positive in this area.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL WATKINS

Couple's marriage receives blessing

In a June 9 ceremony at St. Aloysius Catholic Church, the March 21 civil wedding of Mary Jane Farrell and Michael Watkins, which had been held at the City Hall of Garden City, was blessed by The Rev. Walter Leuchowski.

The bride renewed her marriage vows in a blue and white crepe sundress with a lace camisole jacket and a white straw hat banded in matching blue. The nosegay she held was comprised of silk blue and white flowers tied with lace and satin streamers.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Sara of Monroe, served as honor attendants and the bridal couple's three daughters as flower girls. Jeannie Sue Watkins and Nichole Farrell, both 10, wore pink and white frocks and carried nosegays of assorted garden flowers while Stacey Farrell, 14½, was in orchid and white and wore a wrist corsage of silk flowers.

The bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Watkins of Monroe, and his wife later entertained some 20 guests, mostly immediate family, at a champagne buffet in their home on Lynn Drive, Romulus.

The newlyweds own and operate Carriage Cleaners in Romulus.

Spain is honeymoon site for newly wed Martins

Double ring vows were exchanged May 14 between Ann Marie Bell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Bell of Belleville, and Francisco Javier Martin of Flushing, N.Y., the son of Mrs. Felisa Baz Rodriguez of La Guardia, Spain and the late Conrado Martin Rey.

Some 60 relatives and friends from Spain, New York, Wayne, Ypsilanti, East Detroit, and Belleville witnessed the four o'clock rite conducted by The Rev. Raymond Skoney and The Rev. Samonie at St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in a hoop-skirted creation of Wedgewood lace over taffeta. The little bodice was designed with a contour waist, V-neckline, and bishop sleeves and the full skirt with a lace-banded chapel train.

A Camelot cap of Chantilly lace secured her silk illusion veil which was trimmed with matching lace while a cascade bouquet of white roses, carnations, baby's breath and Boston fern completed her bridal ensemble.

The bride's sister, Gayle Bell of Wayne, served as maid of honor in a floor-length burgundy gown. She held an arrangement of white carnations with burgundy accents and tucked sprigs of baby's breath in her hair.

Bridesmaids in Daphne rose jacket gowns were Jan Griffin and Tracy Lake of Ypsilanti; Linda Wilkinson of Belleville, and Mrs. Colleen Bell of East Detroit, the bride's sister-in-law.

Two-year-old Jennifer Bell was her aunt's flower girl in a pink pleated knee-length frock. The white carnations she carried were arranged in a little wicker basket.

Conrado Martin of Forest Hills, N.Y., brother of the bridegroom was asked to be best man. Grooms-men included Dwight Bell of East Detroit and Larry Bell of Belleville, both brothers of the bride, and Francisco Cid and Miguel Rodriguez, both of New York.

At the reception which followed at Howard Johnson's, the bride's mother greeted some 100 guests in a pale blue formal gown to which she pinned her orchid corsage.

The newlyweds spent a month and a half traveling in Spain and are now making their home at 139-81 35th Ave., Apt. 6-G, Flushing, N.Y.

A 1978 graduate of Belleville High School, the new Mrs. Martin was formerly employed as a secretary in the Hospital Alcoholism Therapy Program at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti.

Her husband, who received his education internationally, works as a maitre'd at Marbella Restaurant in Bayside, N.Y.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Bell home in Belleville.

potpourri

By Lee Smith
Suburban Living Editor

Included in our assortment of mail when we returned from a trip to Lost Lake Woods recently was an impressive-looking letter, the return address reading: The American Institute for Cancer Research, Washington, D.C.

Its innards revealed a 3½-page single-spaced letter to "Dear Friend" and another page with the head "1983 Census on Diet and Breast Cancer."

At long last, I told myself, someone cares enough to seek out us gals who, because of heredity and fibrocystic breast disease, are potential candidates for the dreaded illness. I'd figured that somehow the Institute had gotten my name from my doctor since I'm among the many who have twice-yearly visits, exams and periodical mammograms, biopsies and aspirations.

The letter starts out with the shattering statistics that one out of every 11 women will get breast cancer (BC) during her lifetime; that an estimated 90 percent will have to have one or both breasts removed — and another 28 percent will eventually die from the disease.

Not statements anyone cares to read since, once learned, those facts have a way of sticking in your memory; but it might be well to shake us all up once in awhile.

I went on to read that a "way to prevent and even control BC may be on the horizon since several studies have shown there is a strong relationship between what you eat and the chances of getting BC: that diet may be responsible for up to 60 percent of the cancer in women today."

That certainly was an attention-grabber since any of us (with will power and perseverance, of course) could manage to control what we eat! I'd already been told to limit my caffeine intake so have had to ax tea, coffee, colas, certain medicinal tablets and, most painfully, chocolate from my diet.

The letter continued: "This is why it's so very important for you to fill out and return the enclosed census form. When we receive your answers we will send you a free analysis of the good things in your diet that may help you prevent breast cancer — as well as foods you may wish to cut down on."

"In addition," it went on, "your census answers combined with those of other women will help us here at the American Institute of Cancer Research put together a "profile" of some of the eating habits of American women which can provide cancer researchers with invaluable clues in their search for the link between diet and breast cancer. So — PLEASE — use the enclosed postage paid envelope to return your completed census today."

Then it goes on for two more pages with such impressive statements as: In California we (AICR) are helping to fund experiments into how Vitamin C may help prevent BC; in Texas we are helping to fund another project where special protein derivatives are being used to treat BC; we are supporting a researcher who has tested the effects of the mineral selenium on laboratory mice with BC. And so far, 80 to 90 percent of the selenium-treated mice have been able to totally resist the effects of breast cancer."

The letter then begins to get redundant but eventually narrows down to how many thousands of dollars are spent getting this project underway. Naturally, the Institute wants money but with such potential for a cure, a few dollars donated certainly wouldn't hurt and surely would help this wonderful cause. Reading on, I found that, along with the money requested, was the continual reminder that I "could be among that 60 percent whose diet could cause BC; that, don't forget, one out of every 11 women in the U.S. will get BC; that thousands die from this dread disease — and many more thousands have their breasts removed because of breast cancer."

"Can we count on you to help us with this vitally important project?" the concluding paragraphs ask. "Can we count on you to return your completed 1983 Census on Diet and Breast Cancer along with your tax deductible gift of $5, $10 or more?"

"Because," it concludes, "unless we receive additional funding, we will have to cancel many of the projects we are supporting."

I was ready to fill out that important questionnaire right then and there and to include my check for further research (even though there was an unnecessary P.S. reminding me again that 60 percent of the cancer in women may be caused by diet.)

Now — for the all-important form which lists all of TEN questions. And, remember, they offered to send me a free diet analysis when I returned it (along with my donation, don't forget.)

I'd be amazed if anyone at that institute could tell anything (I don't already know) from my answers to the following few, "diet" questions.

Here's the gist of it all:

- (1) Do you eat red meat (steak, roast beef, etc.) at least three times a week?
- (2) What kind of vitamin supplements do you take?
- (3) Are you a vegetarian?
- (4) Do you smoke cigarettes?
- (5) Do you have over three alcoholic drinks per day?
- (6) How many cups of coffee do you drink every day?
- (7) Which of the following foods do you eat at least three times per month? Sausage, bacon, ham, cold cuts, bologna, hot dogs, none of the above.
- (8) Have you ever had breast cancer?
- (9) Have you ever discovered a lump on your breast that was found to be non-cancerous?

(10) Have any of your blood relatives had breast cancer?

That's it! That all-important census that's going to contribute to that diet-link to cancer. Ten questions, four of which have nothing to do with food!

Where are the queries about vegetables, breads, pork, veal, poultry, fish, fruits, soft drinks, pasta, dairy products, desserts, snack foods, etc., etc., etc.?

What about the way in which they are prepared: fried, broiled, boiled, sautéed, roasted, grilled, steamed? Or not prepared; raw? How about the spices, herbs, flavorings we add? If our fruits and vegetables are home-grown or store-bought; if our meats and poultry are locally raised or mass-produced; if eggs come direct from small-scale sellers or are production-line species. There are dozens of other questions to be asked.

I am angry! Angry because this is a sham! And I am deeply concerned with the facts they (the AICR) kept pounding away at in that letter. I am concerned because my maternal grandmother had a mastectomy, that I need special exams, that I have three daughters who'll eventually need to think of their heredity, that cancer scares the living hell out of me; that the postage-paid, self-addressed envelope is for my check; that they don't give a hoot about that inane "census", that a lot of women are going to be "taken" by all that "concern" by the researchers.

A lot of us women, who've compared notes on lump-ridden breasts and our results, have felt all along that what the public is eating these days probably is a factor in many cancers. The consensus has been, however, that it's the preservatives, additives and other garbage we're buying, cooking and consuming that are the culprits.

The whole heartbreaking cancer problem has made me wonder just why every doctor who sees cancer victims and potential victims isn't armed with legitimate census forms with in-depth questions; ones that patients would be only too eager to fill out and return (at their own expense) to truly concerned groups of researchers. That way, not only what we ingest but how we go about doing it (casually, regimentally, formally, quietly, boisterously, indifferently) and the life styles we lead, where we live and work and the whole kit and caboodle could be analyzed.

I, for one, would be not only happy but eager to donate to such a worthwhile study. Just don't send me a bunch of crapola about wanting to know about my diet and then never even get to the basics! I often wonder about the cancer societies I do help and why more isn't being done? Have you ever been polled about cancer? I think we have the answers if only someone would bother to collect them.

THE BOTTOM LINE: Do your givin' while you're livin'; then you're knowin' where it's goin'.

The Garden Corner

Q. How can I store leftover vegetable seeds so they'll still be good next year?

A. Most vegetable seeds will remain viable for a year or more if stored in a tightly sealed jar in a cool, dry place.

Q. Are there disadvantages to moving my house plants outdoors for the summer?

A. Yes. House plants may become infested with insects or infected with disease organisms. If placed in direct sun, they may become sunburned. Windstorms, animals and vandals may damage them, and thieves may steal them. Plants tend to dry out quickly outdoors and may wilt and die if neglected. Plants that are placed in a shaded, protected spot and provided with plenty of water and fertilizer will probably grow vigorously. This may mean that they'll need re-potting before they're brought indoors in the fall. If you have many plants and must buy pots and potting soil for them, this could be expensive as well as time consuming.

Q. What causes tomatoes to crack?

A. Two types of cracks develop in tomatoes. Concentric cracking occurs around the top of the tomato. Such cracks are usually shallow and harm only the appearance of the fruits. Radial cracking, which starts at the stem and cuts into the shoulders of the fruit, opens the tomatoes to damage from molds and insects. Tomatoes become more susceptible to cracking as they near maturity. Then a sudden change in soil moisture from dry to wet can cause the fruits literally to burst out of their skins. Watering to minimize fluctuations in soil moisture and buying crack-resistant varieties are your best strategies to avoid problems with cracking.

Hard-cook some eggs, then use 'em in salads and tasty sandwiches

HAM AND EGG SALAD PUFFS

2 servings

Picture two egg salad sandwiches covered with a custard mixture and then baked. If that's a little hard to picture, try them. They're unusual, but undeniably good.

3 tablespoons mayonnaise or dairy sour cream

1 teaspoon instant minced onion

1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt

1/2 teaspoon lemon juice

2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced

1/4 cup finely chopped celery

3 tablespoons chopped cooked ham

4 slices day-old bread

Butter

2 eggs

1/2 cup milk

3 drops hot pepper sauce

Parsley, optional

In small bowl blend together mayonnaise, onion, salt and lemon juice. Reserve 2 center egg slices for garnish. Chop remaining eggs. Stir chopped eggs, celery and ham into mayonnaise mixture. Set aside. Trim crusts from bread, if desired. Butter 1 side of each slice. Place 1 slice of bread, buttered-side down, in each of two 1 1/2-cup shallow baking dishes or pans (5x5x1 1/2-inch work well.) or place 2 slices in 8 1/2x4 1/2x2 1/2-inch loaf dish or pan. Spread each of these slices with scant 1/2 cup of the reserved egg salad mixture. Top with remaining bread slices, buttered-side up. Beat together eggs, milk and hot pepper sauce. Pour evenly over sandwiches. Cover and refrigerate several hours or overnight. Bake uncovered in preheated 350°F. oven until golden brown, about 40 to 50 minutes. Garnish with reserved egg slices and parsley, if desired.

WILTED SPINACH SALAD

6 servings

Bright as spring in color and flavor, this hearty salad has a sweet-sour dressing for tang and hard-cooked eggs for protein punch.

1 package (10 oz.) fresh spinach (about 8 cups torn)

5 slices bacon

1 egg

1/2 cup vinegar

2 tablespoons sugar

2 tablespoons water

1 cup drained bean sprouts

5 hard-cooked eggs, sliced

1/4 cup chopped green onions

with tops

Wash spinach thoroughly in lukewarm water. Drain. Chill to crisp. In large omelet pan or skillet over medium heat, cook bacon until crisp. Drain and crumble, reserving 1/2 cup drippings in pan. Set bacon aside. In small bowl, beat 1 egg. Beat in vinegar, sugar and water until blended. Stir into reserved drippings in pan. Over medium heat, stirring constantly, bring just to boiling. Tear chilled spinach into bite-sized pieces. Place in large salad bowl. Top with bean sprouts, egg slices, reserved bacon and onion. Pour hot dressing over all. Toss gently until ingredients are evenly coated with dressing.

our opinions

The Westland story

Less than one month ago the Westland City Council approved the city's 1983 budget, its new game plan for better living through sound fiscal practices. Within hours of its approval, Mayor Charles Pickering had indicated that while he had some concern about some of the council's decisions he would live with the budget as approved.

Less than a month ago it appeared that some form of sanity had returned to the city, that the mayor and council had put behind them the bad blood of fiscal 1982 for the betterment of the community.

That apparently will not be the case, after the mayor fired the opening salvo in what appears to be the "Battle of the Budget 1983". In the waning moments of fiscal 1982 he announced that because of the severe constraints put on the Fire Department in the budget, one fire station would be closed, alternating between two of the city's four stations, when manning dropped below 15 men per shift.

The mayor in making his announcement contended that the council's decision on that department's budget showed its lack of concern for the health, safety and welfare of residents and was a way of getting even with the fire fighters who supported the mayor in the 1981 election.

To determine that a department cannot live within its budget even before that budget went into effect shows a lack of creative management and is akin to the little boy who cried wolf. It also reeks of political overtones. If the mayor is so concerned about the residents' health, safety and welfare, then why hasn't he showed interest in the staffing levels at the Police Department? The last time we looked they were an integral part of the health, safety and welfare routine.

That department has dealt with low staffing levels for years and has been able to do its job efficiently and effectively in spite of budget constraints. In fact, through a bit of creative management it was able to clean up Hines Park last spring and keep overtime costs down.

The mayor claims vindictiveness against fire fighters, but we think otherwise. It is more of a case of over-protectiveness on his part. The fire fighters were heavy Pickering supporters in the last city election, and since the mayor took office, they have been afforded considerations not extended other city departments.

At a time when the city could ill afford it, promotions within the department came at break neck speed. Hirings came just as quickly, slowed only briefly by the lack of a hiring list. In other city departments, promotions were few, if any, and most vacancies went unfilled.

It appears to us that the mayor's most recent announcement is meant more to embarrass the council and stir the pot of discontentment in the community than anything else.

Campaign rhetoric has no place in the day-to-day operations of the city, and it is sad that a department as important to the welfare of residents as the fire department has allowed itself to become embroiled in politics, as much as it has. It is time for the mayor to get to the business at hand, managing the city, and leave the politics to after hours.

It is unfair to the residents of Westland to be used as pawns in a game of chess that has no winners. It is also unfair to all parties concerned to cry wolf when there is no wolf. Westland managed to protect its residents with less than four fire stations before. The closing of one temporarily is not a cause for alarm. It is better to have three adequately staffed than to have four understaffed.

Water rate change

He needed an ordinance to do it, but Romulus Councilman Jimmie Raspberry mustered enough support to push through a key resolution that inevitably is going to have a crucial effect on how the city does business in the future.

What Mr. Raspberry did last week was to make sure that if the city receives any decreases in its water and sewer rates from Detroit, those rates would also reflect on the local consumers' bills.

The present ordinance states that if rates are increased, they are automatically handed down to the consumer. Now, if those rates are decreased they automatically will be lowered.

The nemesis of many administration programs that call for increased spending, Mr. Raspberry's and his proposal are right on target. Taxpayers are sick and tired of seeing rates climb higher and higher while city officials argue "that there is nothing we can do about it."

Romulus residents should be happy they have someone watching each dollar and cent that comes into the city's coffers — and how it goes out."

Editorial feedback

More is at stake at WCGH that meets the eye

County Commissioner Kay Beard's column last week, headlined "County Commission shall provide WCGH's operation, charter says," contains certain distortions and omissions which require public discussion.

Commissioner Beard would lead the public to believe that the ordinance I have proposed concerning Wayne County General Hospital is not before the County Commissioners for consideration.

My proposed ordinance has been brought to the attention of each and every Commissioner, was discussed at the special meeting of the Human Resources Committee on June 1, 1983 and will be formally offered as a substitute for the Beard ordinance.

I believe it is safe to say that Commissioner Beard's Hospital Ordinance, if adopted, will be vetoed by the County Executive.

In the event that veto were over ridden, I believe the ordinance would be challenged in court as being in violation of the new County Charter and the County Charter Act passed by the state legislature.

The new Wayne County Charter is governed by the County Home Rule Act, and the powers granted by the County Charter must be provided for by the County Charter Act.

The County Charter Act expressly provides that the administration of the County shall be under the control of the County Executive. Under Commissioner Beard's ordinance, which is a product of a strained interpretation of the Charter, the County Commission, through its Board of Institutions, would have exclusive control over the hospital. The County Executive would not even sign the pay checks.

I suspect the Charter Commission which wrote the Charter and the people of Wayne County who voted for the Charter, would be shocked to think that the operation of Wayne County General Hospital would be under the exclusive domain of the County Commission and its appointees.

The commission form of Government which has ruled Wayne County General Hospital has proven to be a failure. The hospital has an annual deficit in excess of $10,000,000. It seems incredible to think that the County Executive would be responsible for unifying the management of the County but would be unable to address any cost saving measures to the hospital. Such a bizarre interpretation of the Charter not only runs contrary to the express language of the County Charter Act and the Charter, but is contrary to fundamental principles of good government.

The whole purpose of the new Charter was to provide for unification of the management of the County under a single person, accountable to all the people of Wayne County. Unless we give the Executive the tools to do the job then it would not be proper to hold him accountable for the condition of the county.

It is unfortunate that certain Commissioners, unhappy with the fact that Bill Lucas is the County Executive, would seek to undermine the County Executive's power and authority. In doing so, they destroy the office of County Executive.

In these formative years of the new County Charter it is important to remember that the integrity of the office of County Executive must be maintained. If the office of County Executive is destroyed for Bill Lucas it is destroyed for all future County Executives including those that might enjoy the favor of those Commissioners who do not care for Bill Lucas.

It is my hope, that the ordinance finally adopted by the Commission, with respect to the operation of Wayne County General Hospital, will be an ordinance in tune with the people and the Charter. I have received resolutions of support for such an ordinance from Huron Township and the City of Woodhaven and have received favorable comments and expect similar resolutions from Councilmen from the Cities of Taylor, Wayne and Allen Park to mention a few.

The ordinance proposed by Commissioner Beard, if adopted, will insure the demise of Wayne County General Hospital by casting in stone, past bad administrative practices. The ability of the County Executive to manage the County's debt will be substantially eroded. The ability of the County Executive to unify the management of County Government will be destroyed.

I urge the people of Wayne County to impress upon their County Commissioners their views on the proposed hospital ordinance.

Back to basics... Why?

Tom Mooradian
Managing Editor

The great white-haired patriarchs in Washington are informing us that we are raising a crop of illiterates who can't read or write.

They're telling us to "get back to the basics" or the end of the dynasty is near.

The message is "reform" or suffer the consequences... Strange, wasn't that the same message Aristotle told his fellow countrymen back then at the dawn of civilization? He said something like the kids don't hit the books hard; they like to run in marathons and don't respect their teachers and parents.

If my sources are right, and my sources are the Associated Press and wire services, tavarich, over there in his new society in Russia where they have kept to the basics, is also in trouble.

In fact, everytime the curtain is upped an inch or two, there's this mad scramble to see who gets to the United States first and fastest. And that's after the Reds are pumped with every kind of propaganda possible; even Pavlov and his dogs apparently haven't worked.

So, looking to the Soviets for a model isn't going to do it.

What about East — to Japan, after all, they are making cars, some say, better than we are or how can we explain the Japanese auto's popularity in this country?

Well, give me an American-built car any day and any place. We build them better.

What our kids can learn from the Japs are how to steal secrets and reproduce them and say they invented them. Might be coming down on our modern day allies a bit too hard, but the way they're playing the game nowadays they didn't need a Pearl Harbor to beat us.

Japan's arrogant and authoritarian economics outrages all Americans who believe in — but can't find — fair play in what those island people are doing. They enjoy "free trade here" but slap all kinds of tariff restrictions and taxes on American products when exported to the land of the rising sun.

It is and appears always has been, intellectual chic to knock America. We Americans like to laugh at ourselves. And that "ain't bad".

We strive on individual achievement and forget, sometimes, that we are the greatest country in the world. The greatest in history.

And we will remain so as long as we're allowed to write what we please; criticize those whom we put into office and toss out those who would abuse the powers offered them by the electorate.

As long as the Japs steal our knowledge; as long as the Soviets rush into our department stores and clean up everything they can find, this country is not in trouble.

We are, and they know it, tough pragmatists who, as history has shown time and time again, when the chips are down weather all that our enemies throw at us and then counter with more than they can handle.

Appalled by fund transfer

EDITOR — I am appalled, but not surprised, by Westland Mayor Charles Pickering's comments concerning the illegal fund transfers which have occurred in the City of Westland.

To blame this action on the former Finance Director, Lawrence Williams, is both inaccurate and a great injustice.

First of all, as the Chief Executive Officer of this City, Mayor Pickering should be reminded that he must be held accountable for all actions of his appointees.

Secondly, I have worked with Mr. Williams, in the past, and have known him to be an individual of high moral character, as well as a conscientious employee.

I would not be surprised if Mr. Williams was forced by the Mayor to initiate these illegal practices; and, as a result, Mr. Williams was forced to tender his resignation, because of this pressure and his moral obligations.

It is most unfortunate that the City of Westland lost another good employee, whose loss I blame solely on the Mayor, a commodity hard to find these days.

I am not a City Council member, so I cannot be charged by Mr. Pickering with political harassment. I am, merely, a resident of this city who is dismayed and unhappy with Mr. Pickering's total inability to effectively run our government.

It is most sad to see this city deteriorating with Mr. Pickering at the helm of what once was a fine community but now a sinking ship.

Festival board says 'thank you'

EDITOR — The Canton Country Festival Board wishes to publicly express our gratitude to the numerous volunteers, civic organizations, and Canton Township employees who helped make the 1983 Festival a success.

Without such a commitment, there would be no Festival and the citizens of our community would be deprived of the benefit of such a community event.

Suspect found 'not guilty'

EDITOR — On January 20, 1983, your newspaper printed an article and published it in your three local papers. This article was about a 19-year-old Westland man arrested and charged with second degree murder in an incident that happened at the Music Box Lounge. The young man's name is Keith Allen George.

I understand there is a thing called "Freedom of the Press." It is your job to print the news. But what I don't understand is why after a two week trial downtown, and he was found not guilty of this charge, was it not printed in your paper. I'm sure in my heart if he had been found guilty you would have printed. Just for your records on June 13, 1983, he was found NOT GUILTY.

I also happened to be the mother of this 19-year-old.

Nankin Transit earns applause

EDITOR — I would like to take this opportunity to commend Nankin Transit Commission and its drivers for its outstanding contributions to the Seniors of Westland. The continuous service is essential to those seniors who need transportation services for their very existence.

I would like to point out a number of specific examples in which you have provided services above and beyond the call-of-duty.

Your delivery of hot lunches to 10 homebound seniors per day. In many instances this lunch is the only meal these seniors receive. Your assistance in delivering these meals come at a critical time when city-funding was slashed and this critical need could not be met without your agency stepping in and helping out.

Another area you have assisted the seniors in is providing transportation services free-of-charge to those seniors suffering financial hardships. Upon careful screening of an individual's true need of free service, you have provided such service.

You have also been readily available to assist me and the seniors in emergency situations. In the past two weeks you have provided emergency runs to area doctors' offices and nursing homes. These runs, on short notice, removed the emotional and mental stress these people were suffering worrying about their transportation problems.

Last, but not least, was the helping hand you gave to the area Minor Home Repair program. This program provides repair services to our local communities. Their van had broken down and they were unable to perform their work. Your "loaning" of your blue van to them allowed them to complete their work.

These are just some examples of the outstanding services your agency performs. I feel it is about time that the people in the communities you serve know about your outstanding contributions.

I would like to "Thank You" for your assistance and look forward to working with you in meeting the needs of our seniors.

Teacher picket in poor taste

EDITOR — At our son's graduation this year, we were so excited, as this was our first. We arrived at Romulus North Jr.

JOYCE HAGELTHORN

And I was right behind him.

Only this time there was a difference. If a kid could use four-letter words to control his parent and middle-aged women were being chic in society playing with dirty words, as the good doctor said, then with due apology to the doctor, I would see what a chic middle-aged mother could do with obscene words in controlling one bratty kid. That magic-value should work two ways.

And it did.

After he picked himself up and brushed off the broom handle he looked up at me with huge respectful eyes.

"Gee, mom," he said, "you sure know some dandies!"

and said so and said so. And, by not apologizing because you yourself have nothing to apologize for, you remind us that magnanimity is not necessarily the president's strong point.

There are those who would suggest that the hemming and hawing is not because you don't know how you feel — they would suggest that it is a tactic, widely used and strongly favored; a stalling measure until this whole thing blows over.

The fault with that tactic is that it, and not the issue, is what we're then forced to draw attention to. At least until the investigation gives us something more to chew on.

In short, the issue is not the issue — the evasion of the issue is.

Ah, politics. What did we do before it was invented?

reflections

A few little dandies

It is a hot day today. All of my windows are open and from them are coming the sounds of summer, even down to a couple of little boys across the way, making the air blue with cuss words.

And I can hear their mothers yelling at them in shock and anger, and if I weren't the type of person who never butts into anyone else's business I would get out of this chair and go out and tell those mothers how not to get excited.

It would be nice if another book could be published for these mothers, like the one published when I was dealing with cussing kids a long time ago.

There was a psychiatrist out of New York who wrote that obscene words were becoming chic. Decorous middle-aged matrons were dropping humdingers into sophisticated conversations. He advised motehrs when confronted with blue air to remain calm and in a low voice tell her kid that those words belong in the street and not in the home.

Then, in as reasonable a voice as she could muster, she was supposed to tell him that she wasn't shocked at all. According to this doctor the minute she lets her kid know she is excited then he says to himself, "Ah-ha, I have something to torture my mother with." And every good psychiatrist knows that all kids love to torture their mother.

The good doctor felt that children have a tremendous instinct of what to use in the power struggle and he felt that while a child is very young he notices what magical value his words have.

It sounded reasonable and since it was a sure thing that chasing a kid down the alley with a broom didn't do a thing but entertain the neighbors I thought I might give it a try.

I had at my house at that time a 14-year old kid who went around dropping four letter bon mots, which the doctor said was his way of controlling me.

It took a couple of days for that kid to cook up his steam, but when a hot day came he blew ... he really blew. The air fairly sized and I could hear all of the windows being closed in my neighbors homes. I clenched my fists and stood there calmly gritting my teeth.

The calmer I stood the more he drew on his repertory. My little kids stood around grinning at their brother's prowess and a little neighbor kid ducked under the table. I don't think it was the words that was getting to him, I think it was the calmness I was displaying.

I'm not certain whether it was the kids profanity, the hot day, or the dripping water faucet that finally made me lose my cool. I grabbed the broom and away he went. Out the door, through the backyard and down the alley.

A question of ethics

About that investigation into how and why and by whom President Carter's debate notes were acquired: Is it just me, or is something missing here?

I mean, is it enough that President Reagan says he didn't use the notes and, in fact, didn't even know they were wandering around in his camp?

Isn't the real issue the question of whether or not, now that he knows about it, he (President Reagan) thinks there was anything wrong?

When asked (three times) during his press conference last week what he thought about the ethics of the whole thing, Reagan sidestepped all three times.

That worries me, that sidestepping. The questions were perfectly clear and not subject to evasion. We all know, from watching those things, that there are questions asked that simply cannot be answered without some thought first. But these weren't them.

The question was: "Do you think it was ethical for your aides to accept the debate notes, regardless of whether or not they were used? (Or words to that effect.)

A simple "yes" or "no" would have sufficed. Although I've never known a politician, come to think of it, who ever answers with a simple yes or no.

All right then, President Reagan could have said something like: "No, I don't think such a thing is ethical — if, in fact, it even happened — and, as I've said before (something he's said many times before), we're looking into it."

That answer — simple and concise and at the same time pretty noncommittal — would have satisfied me. And it would have satisfied his affected aides, and his party — and possibly even Jimmy Carter.

All he wanted to know was where he stood on ethics. No matter what the outcome, was the action in question right or wrong?

Someone asked the president later if he had given any thought to apologizing to Mr. Carter for what had happened. Mr. Reagan huffed (uncharacteristically, is should be noted), "I have nothing to apologize for. I've done nothing wrong."

Ah, but somebody in your camp did, Mr. Reagan, and sometimes, when you're the Head Honcho, you have to — chin up — take the rap for the other guys.

Somebody got hold of those papers. David Stockman saw them. He said so, long ago. But is it possible that the Reaganites came by them legitimately? That someone in the Carter camp was kind enough to send them along for review before the debate.

About as possible as the Ayatollah being caught baking brownies.

So now, by being over-cautious — or stubborn — you've disappointed us. By sidestepping the ethical issue, you've caused us to wonder why? Surely, if you knew in your heart (Oh, wait a minute — that was the other administration) that it was wrong, you would have said so —

High with our family, what did we see? The teachers picketing! What a way to spoil one's graduation!

There is a time and place for everything. This was not. The kids were just as upset as the parents were.

In these times everyone has to take pay cuts. My husband did. So, why do the teachers feel they are different? They are just cry-babies.

They have 364 to do their thing. They showed me they have no class. They wanted to ruin this special day for our kids.

After 13 years Seniors didn't deserve this. I don't feel sorry for the teachers, but I do feel sorry for the kids. Look what's been taken away from them. Maybe the kids should be the ones out there with signs. Then let's see how the teachers react? This whole thing really upsets me. If I had my way the teachers wouldn't get another cent from the taxpayers! And I'm sure that there are a lot of other parents that feel the same way.

Wayne baseball program criticized

EDITOR — For the last four years I have always wondered why the Wayne Junior Baseball program has never gotten any coverage from your paper. Well now I UNDERSTAND.

I have been a coach in this program for the last four years. First three years in grapefruit now in class F. Every year I returned with hopes the league would be better, but all I find is kids leaving for other leagues.

The umpires for the first three years were kids themselves. This year they are older but they don't seem to know anymore, even though they had to pass a test.

The field conditions are really terrible. They spend a lot of time fixing the fields but I would like to know what fields. One of our games had to be cancelled because of water and heavy mud at second base and home plate. The field crew came at 5 p.m. to try and fix the field. The game starts at 6 p.m. If they had raked it early in the afternoon the sun could have dried it up. One time there were tire ruts in the infield. The equipment we use is damaged, in general it is in bad shape. They have no medical equipment available. You should see everyone running around when someone gets hurt.

The league is a year behind with the kids' age. They make their own rules and then they change them. Last night I was ejected from the game for asking why a kid was ejected. I had not until that point even exchanged a word with the umpire. Something is wrong when you can't ask a question.

I don't have a son who plays ball. But I pour everything into the game and I ask nothing but a fair shot. I'm still waiting for that shot. The game is for the kids but in Wayne the kids are only a pawn. The game belongs to the people in charge.

How can a team forfeit when they are on the field? The fight was between the coach and the umpire. The coach was on private property saying nothing at the time the umpire forfeited the game.

I am sad to say the game I have played for twenty one years and coached for nine years is not the game we play in Wayne. They have drained every ounce of fun from the game.

I love the game and I just can't take it anymore. The only coverage this city deserves is to be exposed for what they are. Thank you.

Shattered: Spirit of graduation

EDITOR — Recently I participated in Salem High School's commencement exercises.

I was angered and appalled by the many parents and guests who started leaving the stands while easily one-third of the graduating seniors waited to be recognized.

Such obvious insensitivity to the spirit of the evening speaks poorly of those who could not think beyond the fleeting seconds when their graduate was in the spotlight.

From the field, that solid stream of exiting people seemed disheartening, if not downright rude. I hope in future years members of the audience will show greater courtesy and consideration to our class of seniors and remain seated until all have been recognized and declared graduates.

Tribute to Ed Kind

*Admiration can't sum up
A fondness for your words
In coming years the angels might
By gathering the singing birds.*

*In honor of you, as favor to me
They'd choose a special day
And perch beneath your window sill
Until the break of day.*

*Upon command from One up high
Would ask the birds to sing
Then one by one awaken you
In bird like harmony.*

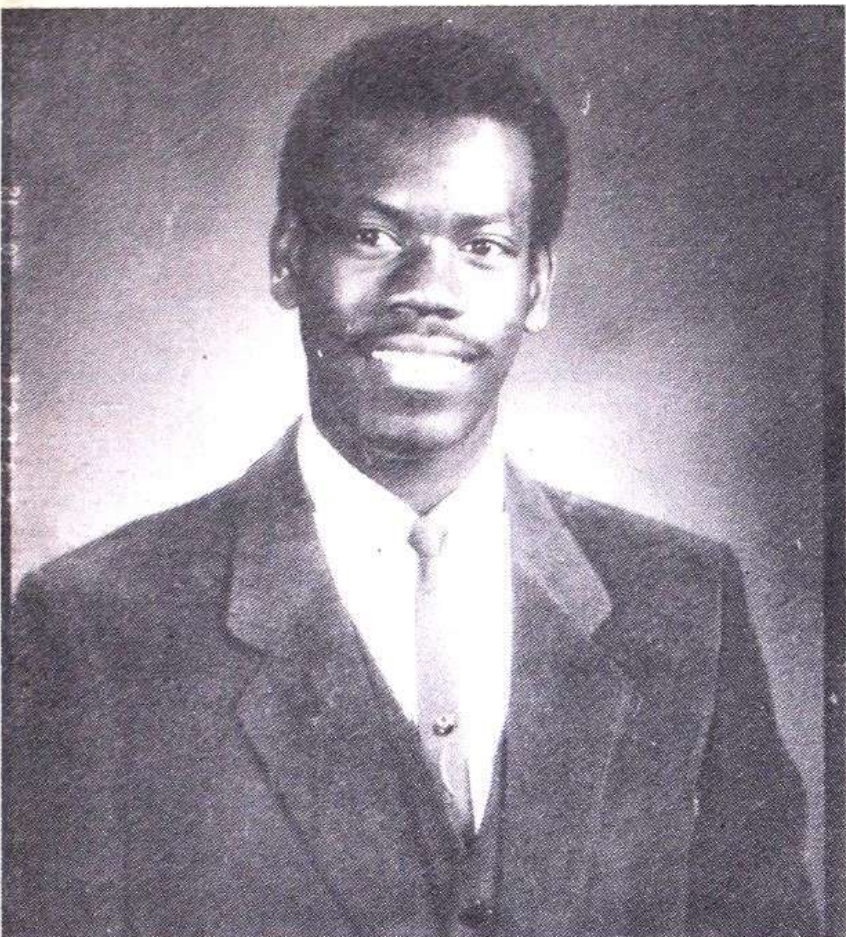

*I know it may not come to pass
But that's the gift I'd give
To honor you and help you see
Your words forever live.*

*This poem alas has a moral
Please note most rhymes have not
But I being different as I am
Do wonders most cannot.*

*The bottom line is this I say
In regards to angels and birds
They compose the symphony
While man supplies the words
"To every poet that ever wrote,
Be sure a bird he heard".*

*But your poems my friend are a gift from God
While angels guide your pen
Inis surely shows his place for you
Among the world's great men.*

'Outstanding youth'

Romulus' James Nelson appointed to Air Force Academy

Congressman William D. Ford (D-Taylor) today announced the appointment of James R. Nelson, of Romulus, to the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

James, the son of Harry and Gwendolyn Nelson, is a recent graduate of St. Thomas Aquinas High School in Southgate.

While at Aquinas, James competed in track and field, while participating in marching band, pep band, and concert band.

James also received the Delta Sigma Theta award as one of the area's "Outstanding Young Men". He is a member of the National Honor Cosicet, based on his 3.60 grade point average, and will begin his studies at the Academy this summer.

"I am delighted that James has been named to the Air Force Academy," Congressman Ford declared. "He will make a fine Air Force Officer, and will be a credit to his family and to his country."

Resident requests strict moped law enforcement

Motorcycle, motorbike and moped riders who have been enjoying the use of a field near the Fellows Creek Subdivision in Canton Township may find their welcome worn out.

Gary Starin, a resident of the subdivision, appeared before the Canton Township Board of Trustees Tuesday evening at the regular meeting and complained about the motorized vehicles which utilize the land near his home.

He explained that the undeveloped field near Saltz and Sheldon Roads is regularly used as a dirt track for all types of mini-bikes, mopeds and dirt bikes and that he objected strongly to the practice. Starin told the board members that he had submitted a petition throughout the neighborhood

Student honored

A Belleville High student was among area students who were honored at a sixth annual awards banquet sponsored by Eastern Michigan University's Upward Bound Project. The student who received the accolades is Wilson Riddles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Riddles, of 1022 Nash Street. Student award recipients were cited for attendance, academic achievement and positive attitude. The students participated in Upward Bound's young-round program to add to the students' academic experience to better prepare them for post-secondary education.

Dan Aykroyd, Eddie Murphy are perfect team on the screen

By STEVE O'LEARY
Playtime Special Writer

Films teaming two great comedians are a dime a dozen, and more often than naught the result is an interminable flop — "The Survivors," starting Walter Matthau and Robin Williams is a good example of this. Fortunately, "Trading Eddie Murphy gets down. Literally.

Places" is at the other end of the spectrum. The coupling of Dan Aykroyd and Eddie Murphy is a natural one; both have the same background — Saturday Night Live — and both are naturals on the silver screen. But the kudos doesn't stop with these two; screenwriters Timothy Harris and Herschel Weingrod have come up with a top-notch script, and Director John Landis is absolutely Capra-like. No one-joke movie this, more like two separate, wonderfully funny films, wound together until they become one. Basically, "Trading Places" is an old-fashioned story updated for today's world. Aykroyd is Louis Winthorpe III, a top executive in a brokerage firm, and Murphy is Billy Ray Valentine, a down-and-out who does things like pretend he's crippled to get money for pencils. But, because of a cruel scheme between the (boo! hiss!) Duke brothers, Aykroyd is falsely accused of stealing and is kicked out of the street. He loses his home, his JAP girlfriend, and his wits. Almost. Murphy, on the other hand, is given all the riches he's never even dreamed of — and more. He doesn't believe it at first ("Oh, sure, that's MY television set, right?"), and steals from himself before he finally decides to go with it. Excellent supporting performances are given by Jamie Lee Curtis as the hooker who takes the destitute Aykroyd to heart, and Ralph Bellamy and Don Ameche as the bad-guy Duke brothers. This film undoubtedly proves that Eddie Murphy is going to be the major star of our time, and that Aykroyd keeps getting better and better as time goes by (This, along with his psycho-crazed character in "Neighbors" show him at his best). "Trading Places" is in no way a groundbreaking film, nor one that seems all that special at first glance. It is, however, possibly the best comedy of the year so far, and maybe the best since "Arthur." Don't wait on cable for this one, see it now.

City Golf Championship dates are set

Fellow's Creek to host 23rd annual tourney on July 23-24

You've asked for it, and here it is: The 1983 City Golf Championships are coming your way.

"It's time to register for the prestigious 23rd annual amateur golf tournament which is sponsored by the area Parks and Recreation Departments and The Associated Newspapers.

"We're going back to Fellow's

Creek," said Bill Hawley, tournament manager. "the course is ideal because it is centrally located for all of the golfers.

"As in the past, however, we can't take more than 125 golfers, therefore, early registration is required," Hawley said.

The tournament will be held two-days, the weekend of July 23-24, at the Canton Township course. Golfers will play 36 holes (medal play), shooting their qualifying round on Saturday, July 23, then returning for the championship on Sunday, July 24.

Last year, Westlander Claud Johnston scored a par 72 the first round and took a 78 his second 18-holes to emerge with the championship. He finished one-stroke better than Wayne's perennial contender Ray Ostyn.

Male amateur golfers residing in the cities of Westland, Wayne, Inkster, Romulus, Garden City and Canton Township are eligible to compete for the city (and township) championships which will be conducted simultaneously for the competing communities.

Trophies will be awarded to the first, second and third place finishers in each flight and for each city if the total entry for that community is sufficient.

There is an additional trophy for the over-all medalist or low-scorer for the tournament.

Wayne golfers will also be competing for the Lenny Anderson Memorial Trophy. Patrolman Anderson was the first Wayne police officer to die from injuries sustained in the line of duty.

The low five scorers from each city will be eligible to advance to compete on the city team in state recreation golf tournament. The date and site of the tournament will be announced at a later time. Only bona fide residents may represent a city on the team in the state tournament.

There is a $25 entry fee which covers the costs of the two-day golfing and trophies.

Entries will be accepted at the participating Recreation Department Offices or at the Sports Desk at the Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Michigan.

Checks or money orders should be made out to Bill Hawley, tournament director.

For further information, please contact the Associated Newspapers' Sports Desk 729-4000 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Also, please fill out the accompanying entry blank, indicating preferred tee time.

Seeking national recognition

Wayne Memorial's Matt Hunt (above) who has been competing in tournaments for the past four years, is seeking national recognition in tennis as he vies for the Western Closed Tournament championship. The championship is being decided today in Indiana and the winner in the 16-year-old bracket will advance to the nationals scheduled to be played later this month in Kalamazoo.

In Wayne

Undefeated Jamie's in a class by itself

Jamie's is in a class by itself in Wayne's Class A Softball League.

The undefeated pacesetter chalked up its 12th successful gap between it and second place Greg's Emergency Room.

Wayne Hamilton led the hitting assault for the winners as he hammered out four hits, including a double, and chased home three runs. Terry Kalec had three hits and Dave Eisinger drilled a homer and doubled for the losers.

Pittman's tightened its hold on third place as it edged Greg's 9-8 with a last of the seventh rally. Tied at 8-all after both teams scored twice in their sixth, Pittman got an outstanding effort from Don McGowan and Terry Patterson at the plate. Both had three hits.

Greg's Bob Goodlow belted a homer and two singles to drive in three runs and teammate Terry Johnson picked up three hits for the losers.

Jamie's rattled winless Strepco (0-13) as Steve Chinillo stroked four hits and Mark Morgan singled and tripled in the 7-2 victory.

Little Bill's scored five times in the first inning then needed another 5-run surge in the seventh to break loose a 10-5 win over Pittman's last week. Ron Staples led the winner's attack with a homer and two singles. Bob Vojeski and Ron Bostwick split six hits between them.

Pittman's received two hits from Roy Mason.

Over in the Women's Class A Division, J & D Auto and Flannigan's are deadlocked in first place. Each had won four of their five games while Greg's is a step below the pacesetters (2-4) and St. Mary's is still seeking its first win in six starts.

Greg's Lisa Mondock slammed a triple and a pair of singles and also accounted for four RBI's as they turned back St. Mary's 9-3. Both teams checked in with 10 hits. Diane Began's double led the way for two St. Mary's runs.

J & D Auto exploded for nine runs in the third inning to bury Flannigan's 20-9 as Debbie Petterson and Lori Newman paced the hitters with four and three hits respectively. Flannigan only managed eight hits.

St. Mary's wasted Natalie Korzordzi's homer and single and a pair of hits from Teri Blatery and Brenda Fugir in its 13-5 loss at the hands of Greg's Emergency.

Over in Class B, Village Bar continues to set the pace as the undefeated club clobbered O'Leary's 19-8 in a game cut short because of the "mercy rule." Village scored 14 times in the first inning after O'Leary's got seven in their opening frame.

Losing pitcher Barb O'Leary wasted three hits, as she doubled and stroke two singles. Teammate Sherry Jodas turned in with three RBI's thanks to a triple and double.

Gail St. An had two singles and Jeannie Hamel tripled in a run while Cheryl Soltis doubled and tripled to help Mary Baryo chalk up the win.

Lucille's destroyed Unistrut 13-1 (See CLASS B Page B-4)

4 teams wage softball wars for Romulus city league titles

Four teams continue to boast untarnished records in the Romulus Softball Leagues as the season reaches its halfway point.

Walter's, with a perfect 6-0 mark, and N.A.P.A., 5-0 on the season, are heading for a showdown to see which team will remain atop of the Sunday League, while Taylor A.C., has a 6-0 mark in the Friday Open "A" Conference, and Johnston-Smith Graphics is 7-0 in the Friday Open "B" League.

Glass Mug, with a 7-2 mark, continues to chase Romulus City Drugs for the lead in the Men's Class A Division. The pacesetter has amassed an 8-1 over-all record; Glass Mug is 7-2 on the year.

Glass Mug overwhelmed Deyan's Antiques 24-8 as Mel Allen hammered two homers and knocked in four runs. Teammates Tim Abramski, Ron Buckley and Mike Dolan also homered off of losing pitcher Jamie Hinajosa, who was tagged for a total of 20 hits.

Mag Media rallied for four runs in the bottom of the seventh to edge Tom's Lawn-Snow Service 8-7 for its fifth victory in 10 starts. Kurt Johnston swatted four hits, including a triple for the losers while teammates Cal Vedder and Rick Hoover each checked in with three and two hits, respectively. Steve Bird laced a homer and drove in three runs off of winning pitcher Randy Hall.

Loser Scott Knight served up two hits each to Mike Britz, Ron Dick and Gary Eves who also knocked in three runs.

Although F.X. Coughlin had two more (12-10) hits than Landing Strip Lounge, the loungemen won a 10-5 decision in the only other Class A game. Gary Griffith tripled and singled for 5 RBIs.

Einar Kuaran, who earned the victory, was tagged for three hits by Jerry Ruhlig, and Bob Blevins connected for two doubles. Ray Schmucker snacked a triple and Wilds had a two-base hit.

Taylor A.C. Lounge slammed 27 hits and turned back Walter's Bar 18-5 for its six consecutive victory in the Friday Open "A" League. Rob Tolliven, charged with the loss, had his problems with Ron Staples.

Also helping the undefeated Taylor's cause were Das Amann, who collected four hits, including a couple of two-baggers and Eric Babler, who had three hits, including two doubles. Don Staples chipped in with a triple and two singles.

Winning pitcher Don Staphes wasn't let off the hook easy as Walter's also collected 20 hits with the help of three hits from Earl Champagne, who had a pair of singles and a double. Rob Oaics, who had two singles, and Tolliven, who wound up with three hits, also starred at the plate for the losers.

Bartell Chiropractic remained over the .500 mark with a onesided 10-3 victory over Home Showtime, a loser in its first six starts. Bill Coffman drilled four hits, including a double and triple for the winners and Mike Sampson had a pair of doubles while Ernie Thornberg finished the game with two singles.

Thornberg, the winning hurler, gave up a pair of hits to Eugene Jordan and Dewey Cook.

Romulus Recreation Center claimed a 4-1 defensive victory over J.T. Auto Repair for its fourth win in seven starts. Romulus hammered out 17 hits with Kevin Schionscheck collecting three hits and two RBIs, while Dennis Staton picked up a pair of singles and two runs batted in.

Staton, the winning pitcher, was tagged for 11 hits, two of those going to Mark Bratcher. Bob Coffee also collected a pair of singles.

Cline awarded letter

Among those were presented letter awards for their performance this spring on the Western Michigan University's 1983 women's track team was Romulus's Claudette Cline.

Walter's undefeated in Class A

In the only other Friday Men's "A" confrontation, Phil Wiseiman missed a rare shutout as Radiology Associates struck for one run in the bottom of the fifth to spoil Wiseiman and Locker Room's 14-1 triumph.

Fred Sawyer and Jim Snyder split six hits and four RBIs for the winners while Glenn Wadhell checked in with two singles off of loser Gary Nowicki.

Wiseiman, who gave up 13 hits, checked in with two singles off of Wright.

Meanwhile, over in the Women's Class A League, the game of the week featured league-leading Progressive Club and runner-up D.S.I. and Progressive, which did all of its scoring in the first two frames, hung on for a narrow 6-5 victory.

Winning pitcher Beth Tracy was staked to four runs in the first inning and two more in the second before D.S.I. retaliated with a pair of tallies in its first three more in the third.

Loser Sandy Holliday found her nemesis in Linda Madej who latched on to three singles. Tracey Barnett had a single and a double and drove in two runs, while Tracy helped her cause with a double, and Lori Hadynack had two singles.

In other Class A action, Bailey's came up with a run in the top of the seventh to tie D.S.I. 4-4 in their contest. D.S.I. got to Kathy Genaw for four runs in the bottom of the fourth and couldn't tilt the scoreboard again. D.S.I.'s Sandy Holliday gave up four hits, including a double to Debbie Dick, while Mary Deij also had three hits, including a pair of doubles. Joyce Eathorne and Sherry Lewis chalked up two hits apiece.

Rhonda Peters and Olzber Zirker paced D.S.I.'s hitters with two singles apiece. Linda Fleming had a double.

Bailey's broke a scoreless tie in the top of the fourth with a four-run surge and went on to beat fourth-place Angie's 5-1 as both teams collected seven hits. Debbie O'Libo-way drilled a two-run homer while Debbie Dick and Mary Day eached in with doubles for the winners.

Day, the winner, gave up a homer to Dana Linton and two singles to Lori Wright.

In one of the best defensive games of the campaign, Total Petroleum shut out Huron 2-0 behind Hanis Coleman's 10-hitter. Linda Moore and Dinanne Scarborough each had two hits for the losers and Sue Marvaso and Nancy Scott turned in with singles.

Loser Tina Freeman was tagged for a run in the first and sixth innings but couldn't keep Brenda Kryske, who had three singles, off the base paths. Anita Glaab, Karen Weber, and Coleman each had two hits.

Progressive exploded for six runs in the fifth to put down Huron 7-4 behind Tracy's seven-hit pitching performance. Linda Moore belted two hits and Jackie Steele had a double for the losers.

Dianne Scarborough, who was charged with the loss, delivered two hits each to Tracey Barnett and Sherry Hadynack while Donna Catteral had a two-run triple and Tracy picked up a run-scoring single.

Brenda Kryske belted three hits and Chris Pinter stroked two singles and three RBIs as Total claimed an 8-3 victory over Angie's. Winning pitcher Janis Coleman gave up four hits, one of those, however, was a four-bagger to Lisa Bratcher. Denise Qurring had a double.

Blazing Saddles edged runner-up F.X. Coughlin 6-4 to take over sole possession of first place in the women's Class B League. F.X. Coughlin scored four times in the second inning but Saddles countered with three runs in their third, tied the game at 4-4 in the next inning then put two decisive runs on the scoreboard in the fifth.

Winning pitcher Marilyn Much allowed eight hits, including a pair to Debbie Meadows, while Dawn Rurlig and Amy Philport each had run-scoring singles.

Loser Cheryl Michling lost a 10-hitter as Saddles' Bev Canney tripled in a run and Lisa White contributed a single and two RBIs. Bev Hopson's double produced another run.

Although Hilton Airport Jets scored first with a run in the opening inning, Saddles' Marilyn Much buckled down and pitched a five-hitter as the leagues pacesetter won a lopsided 11-1 decision. Hopson had a double and single which counted for three RBIs, while Kellie Hamilton had three hits and Peg Hoppe finished the game with two singles and two RBIs.

Suburban Oil exploded for four runs in the sixth to edge Shell's Hustlers 8-6 for their fifth win in 10 starts. The loss dropped Shell's to 6-5 on the season. Shell's Carol Minda was charged with the loss while teammates Nancy Wands, who had a two-run triple, and Judy Kwek, who had three runs batted in, got the job done at the plate.

Winner Kathy Poltcezek helped her cause with a double and homer which counted for two RBIs. Linda Russo had a double and triple and Lynn Carbon checked in with a pair of doubles.

Waltz Time

By ALAN WALTZ
(ANP Special Writer)

With all the intricate scouting reports used by the big league teams nowadays these stories probably couldn't happen.

With the advent of computers, most franchises base their draft choices on about six or seven different categories, but back in 1944 with World War II raging, a father and his 17-year-old son took a trip from St. Thomas, Pa. down to Frederick, Md. where the Philadelphia Athletics were training for the coming season.

The truck rammed into the dilapidated Blue Ridge League park and Mr. Fox introduced his son Nellie (who was smoking a cigar) to Connie Mack the A's manager and told him his son Nellie was a ball player.

Never one to turn down an offer that sounded crazy to everyone else, Mr. Mack gave the half-grown kid a uniform and launched Nelson Fox on his baseball career.

They kept him a few weeks and then he was sent to the minors to "hone up." He was down in the minors for 7-years with stops at Lancaster, Jamestown, and Lincoln, Neb. He resurfaced in 1949 hitting .255 for the Athletics that year performing as a journeyman infielder.

The next year he was traded to the Chicago White Sox and his first year hit .247.

In 1951 his coaches made him go to a "bottle" type bat and changed the way he made the pivot at second base so he could get the throw to first on double plays a little faster.

He loved to play and suddenly blossomed into the best second baseman in the American League, hitting .313 and making the All-Star team that year. He was like a little rooster on the field always chirping and keeping everyone "up." He would chase anyone and everyone out of the batting cage if they tried to sneak in an extra cut.

In spring training he got a tooth knocked out and was found later at a restaurant eating a steak.

"Just testing," he said. "They're little loose but I can make it to October before repairs are needed."

One thing he didn't discuss was his weight which was listed as 160 but was more like 145 as he stood all of 5'7 inches tall.

Without that irrepressible drive he wouldn't have made it and he is indeed an inspiration to all the "little" guys out there who aspire to be big league ballplayers.

Weight Watchers coming to Belleville

Not knowing any other way to be except overweight, was the way Nancy Sutherland's life was. She had tried several diets, but she was not successful with any of them.

When Nancy's first grandchild was born, this motivated her to lose weight through the Weight Watchers Program. Nancy has heard how other members were losing and keeping their weight off. She was so scared that she would not live to see a second grandchild, because she was so overweight. The Weight Watchers Program helped Nancy lose 102½ lbs. and now she lives a totally different life.

Join Nancy as she tells her success story at a 10 a.m. meeting on July 18 at the First United Methodist Church, 417 Charles St., in Belleville.

NURSING RESOURCE POOL

The Nursing Resource Pool provides supplemental staffing to nursing units within the U. of M. Main Hospital. We are presently accepting applications for qualified RN's and LPN's for temporary position. Nurses with a minimum of one year of recent, acute medical-surgical experience and strong clinical skills will be able to select assignments from a variety of shifts and units. The variety of assignments available offers a unique opportunity to maintain nursing expertise in many different specialty areas.

A few permanent positions will become available later this summer, and applicants from our temporary pool will be given priority for these positions.

To schedule an interview, call the supplemental staffing office at (313) 763-5637.
